

Song lyrics for Shameless Jane
© 2008 Teel Montague Cook

Bean dip Bomb

I woke up, I turned on the T.V. and I fell back in bed...
I was sleeping to the early news, so I missed a lot of what was said.
I figured somebody died, someone was born and someone was out in space...
They were working on a bean dip bomb that would put us all in our place.

I started thinking about the end of the world, and how much I love you;
Wondering about my hair falling out, and if you're in the mood.

I had a long conversation with my garbage man...
He said he don't pick up no empty boxes, lest I cram 'em in the can.
He said he don't do nothing extra he don't get paid to do;
So, I figured that's just the way it is, and I went off to find you.
You took me to get some barbecue.
We didn't have time, so we drove through...
Just talking about what they put in our food, and if you're in the mood.

I pressed my shirt; I went to work, with a smile wrapped around my head.
I was running late 'cause of our big date, and us just "shootin' the shed."
They were not impressed, as you might have guessed, with the reasons that I gave;
So I took to telling the truth about how I'd spent my day...
Just thinking about the end of the world, and how much I love you,
Wondering about my hair falling out, and if you're in the mood.

I got home; I turned on the T.V. and stretched out on the couch...
I caught most of what they said, though I was drifting in and out;
They said, somebody died, someone was born, and someone was out in space...
They were working on a bean dip bomb that would put us all in our place.
So I dreamt about the end of the world, and how much I love you...
And I wondered about my hair falling out, and if you're in the mood.